

Bleak House

by Charles Dickens

Introduced by Peter Ackroyd

Bleak House is a satire on the evils of the British legal system and Victorian Society. A couple arrive in London as claimants in a suit that has dragged through the Court of Chancery for years. Claimed to be Dickens's Greatest, most allusive writing, portraying a society on the edge of spontaneous combustion.

Bound in finest goatskin leather with cloth sides, top-edge gilding and gold blocking on both spine and cloth sides, printed on specially made cream paper, original illustrations, corrected and approved by Dickens himself. 976 pages

Book and Slip case, wrapped in original plastic, Mint Condition

$150.00

(including shipping - Australia Only)

